THE DOSE (aka, President's message)

Fellow Diplomates. It has been an honor to serve you on the American Board of Toxicology (ABT) Board of Directors. The past 4 years have presented the board with some unique challenges and opportunities. The board has been resilient in managing through the changes and has positioned the ABT to be even stronger going forward.

The pandemic forced us into a situation where we could not offer the ABT exam in 2020. This presented an opportunity to move to an electronic exam format, which was only possible through the diligence of the board and the Executive Director. Now, after making the transition from a paper exam, and having offered the electronic exam for the past 3 years at testing centers around the world, we are clearly seeing the benefits. Interest in ABT certification from non-US geographies has grown by 6 % from 2020 to 2023. The number of eligible candidates who sat for the 2023 exam was 283, which was the highest number we have seen since the very first exam in 1980. Even now as we just enter 2024 and the next eligibility period, the number of applications being received at the ABT office is trending higher. Of course, this was not the only change we have seen to the examination in the last few years. Following the completion of the second practice analysis, the exam format moved to 160 questions (140 scored and 20 beta), which is administered in a single 4-hour block. A special thanks to former ABT board president, Nicole Soucy and her co-authors, for publishing the updated practice analysis in the International Journal of Toxicology. (<https://doi.org/10.1177/10915818231184411>).

Another area of development for the board was increased activities by the Outreach Committee, led by fellow board member, Nathan Pechacek. The overall goal for this committee is to increase awareness of the ABT and help grow the number of Diplomates globally. This new committee was able to present to multiple contract research organizations an overview of the ABT certification, the process, and the benefits. Additionally, we provided similar overview presentations at 2021 American College of Toxicology (ACT) Annual Meeting (virtual) as well as at a 2023 meeting of the Personal Care Products Council Safety and Regulatory Toxicology Committee. More recently, we presented an overview of the ABT at a 2023 ACT Signature Webinar on Certifications in General Toxicology, along with leaders representing the Academy of Toxicological Sciences (ATS) and the European Register of Toxicologists (ERT).

Question writing and review continues to be a focus of the entire board, as well as some former board members (Carol Wood, Elaina Kenyon, and Rob Mitkus) who have generously given us the benefit of their time and experience. With the changes in the exam based on the practice analysis as well as the new designation of exam domains, a significant effort was made to write new questions, and improve existing ones. This effort has spurred another new board activity which is likely to become an annual event, the question writing retreat. Our Executive Director, Susie Masten, generously hosted our retreats to foster better question writing.

The past 4 years have gone by quickly. While I am proud of the board's accomplishments, I am going to miss our board activities and the fun we had together. For 3 out of the past 4 years, Nicole Soucy, Nathan Pechacek, and myself also had the privilege of representing companies on the ABT board from the great state of Minnesota. Alas, all good things must come to an end, as we will no longer have a Minnesota contingent on the board (but hopefully for not too long). To that end, I would welcome any Diplomate that is interested in serving on the ABT board, to please reach out and submit your name for consideration.

In closing, I want to thank the ABT board members for their support and hard work. I also want to give a special thanks to our Executive Director, Susie Masten and her assistant, Laurie Wood, for all their support and friendship. You truly made the last 4 years a lot of fun!

President, 2023-2024

Treasurer's Report

The ABT had a strong year financially in 2023. In terms of the budget, total revenue for the year was $391,509 and expenses were $350,476, resulting in a surplus of $41,033. Compared to 2022, our revenue and expenses increased 11.1% and 12.4%, respectively. The primary driver for the higher revenue was the significant increase in the number of people applying, and taking, the exam in 2023. In terms of expenses, there were multiple contributing factors to the increase. The cost of the exam was appreciably higher due to the larger number of exam takers, there was the reemergence of expenses tied to the annual Society of Toxicology meeting (e.g., ABT Mixer and booth), and though inflation did moderate in 2023, there were still price increases in several non-discretionary spending areas. On the investment side, by the end of the 2023 calendar year, our portfolio had a 12.1% return, and a total value of $761,516. The overall value of ABT's investment portfolio is more than twice the annual ABT budgetary expenses, the target goal for the investment portfolio. Since the inception of the investment account, the portfolio has produced an annual rate of return of 9.15% and has increased in value by $414,075.

The ABT Board of Directors approved the 2024 ABT budget of $380,700 in revenue and $372,718 in expenses, with an anticipated surplus of $7,982. The budgeted revenue is a slight decrease from 2023, with a decline of 2.7%. The primary driver for this decline is an anticipated decrease in recertification dues associated with the cancellation of the ABT exam in 2020, and a "missing recertification class" in 2024 (Note: DABTs apply for recertification in the 4th year of their 5-year cycle). This decrease in recertification dues is slightly offset by a $25 increase in the application fee to take the exam, going from $300 to $325. The ABT Board of Directors approved this increase based on a few factors. One consideration was that the application fee had not changed in 7 years, despite the high recent inflationary period. Secondly, the resources required to sufficiently support the ABT application process have increased appreciably over the last several years given the rise in the number of applicants. Given these factors, the Board of Directors felt a fee increase was justified. The 2024 budgeted expenses represent an increase of 6.3% from 2023, with anticipated costs modestly increasing across multiple non-discretionary spending areas. I am fully confident the 2024 budget is in a strong position given the organization's robust history of keeping expenses below revenue, diligently monitoring its financial situation over the calendar year, and adjusting as needed.

As I wrap up my third, and final, year as the ABT Treasurer, there are many people and groups I need to thank. First, I want to express my gratitude to the ABT Treasurers that served prior to me and built such a solid financial foundation for this organization. I particularly want to thank Donald Stump, the ABT Treasurer who immediately preceded me and "showed me the ropes" as I transitioned into the Treasurer role in early 2021. I also want to extend my gratitude to Masten Management, Lynx Investment Advisory, LLC, and the various ABT Board of Directors I had the pleasure to be part of during my three years as Treasurer. These Boards showed tremendous patience as I summarized the financial position of the organization and proposed strategies over the years, asked me tough questions when needed, and tolerated my occasional attempts at levity.

Respectfully submitted,

Nathan Pechacek
Treasurer

The remaining Directors on the Board wish to express their appreciation and commend their colleagues for a job well done.

ABT TURNS 45!

On April 17, 1979, the American Board of Toxicology was incorporated in Washington, DC. The original Board members worked diligently to prepare for the first examination given on August 4, 1980. There were 373 candidates that took the first exam with 217 becoming the first Diplomates of the American Board of Toxicology®. Over the years, a total of 4276 people have passed the ABT examination with 2759 of those currently certified. This year, the 20 remaining active Diplomates from the 1980 class are still certified and due to begin their 9th recertification cycle. Six have already submitted their applications, including Dr. Bruce Kelman. We asked Bruce to submit a memoir to mark this milestone.

Thoughts About the First Exam by a Diplomate from the Class of 1980 in 2024

When the first ABT certification exam was announced, I had completed Ph.D. training in physiology and pharmacology followed by a 3-year postdoctoral study of toxicology. Even so, I hesitated to call myself a REAL toxicologist. In 1974, there were doctoral level individuals from a plethora of disciplines who used the title “toxicologist.” These individuals would hardly be considered toxicologists in 2024; at the time their claims were at best confusing. After all, I had met real toxicologists at the Society of Toxicology annual meetings in 1977 and 1978. I hardly measured up to them in experience and knowledge. It seemed to me that the first ABT exam was an opportunity to find out if I was a “real” toxicologist.

The first exam was different than the current one, but as near as I can tell neither more nor less difficult. The greatest difference was that I had no idea of what it would cover. The uncertainty inspired me to months of study including nearly memorizing the entire first edition of Casarett and Doull. As I walked out of the exam, I had no idea of whether I passed. I did know that I had learned an enormous amount of toxicology. It turned out that I did pass the exam much to my very great personal satisfaction.

My career changed directions almost immediately after I was officially notified that I was a Diplomate of the American Board of Toxicology. I received a significant promotion in my research position. In 1980, there were very few physicians certified in toxicology in my part of the country. I began receiving calls from physicians for clinical consultations. At first, I demurred because I was not trained in medicine. I soon learned that the toxicology I offered could be of great value. My initial preparation for the 1980 exam and subsequent recertifications gave me the confidence and credential to switch from bench science to consulting a decade later.

Forty-four years after taking the first certifying exam by the American Board of Toxicology, I am grateful to the toxicologists who had the wisdom and fortitude to establish a durable credential recognized world-wide. When I have hired toxicologists, the first credential I looked for is “DABT.” When I meet a scientist claiming to be a toxicologist, I look for whether they are Diplomates of the American Board. When I recommend toxicologists to others, I rarely do so unless they are Diplomates of the American Board of Toxicology.

QUEBEC BILL 96

As a result of Quebec Bill 96 adopted in Quebec on June 1, 2022, our testing partner, Pearson Vue, will not administer the ABT examination to any resident of Quebec, Canada, regardless of the test center location. Because of this, effective immediately, the American Board of Toxicology is unfortunately unable to accept applications from any resident of Quebec, Canada.

Dear Auntie Dote

Dear Auntie Dote:

I passed the exam in 1988 and was recertified last year, but I didn't receive my gold sticker to put on my ABT certificate. What's up with that??

Deprived Diplomate

Dear Deprived Diplomate:

The ABT has moved to digital badging. The advantage to this is that it can be displayed digitally with verifiable dates available by clicking on the link. Unfortunately, this resulted in no longer sending paper certificates or gold stickers. We know change is hard and other people miss them as well, but as the author C.S. Lewis once said, "There are far better things ahead than any we leave behind."
